Borovoe

In the north of Kazakhstan, between the cities of Astana and Kokshetau, there is an amazing Borovoye district. The total area of the Shchuchinsk-Borovo resort zone is 159932 hectares. Natural and climatic conditions make it possible to draw an analogy with the European resorts of Italy, Austria, Germany, Switzerland, France and Romania. On the territory there are 14 lakes with a water surface area of about 1 sq. Km. Km each and a large number of smaller lakes. Borovoy's main symbol is the Blue Bay on the lake of the same name. During the trip we plan to visit historical sites, nature monuments: the Khansky Pass, the Ablai Khan Glade, the Gulf of Blue Lake. Borovoye. Brief description of the history of Burabai, geology and legends.

ALZHIR

Akmola camp for the wives of traitors of the homeland (ALZHIR) – the colloquial name of the 17th female camp special department of the Karaganda ITL in the Akmola region, Kazakhstan (1938-1953). The largest Soviet women's camp, one of the 3 «islands» of the Gulag Archipelago. The name is related to the composition of prisoners, a significant part of which was repressed in accordance with the operational order of the USSR NKVD No. 00486 as CSIRs - «members of the families of traitors of the Motherland». The museum-memorial complex is opened with the monument of the «Arch of Sorrow», followed by two compositions «Despair and Impotence», «Struggle and Hope» - like the story of a family forever separated by cruel time. The tunnel, on the walls of which depicts the tragic moments of parting with children, the cruel and unjust court of the troika, the prison cell and the punishment cell helps to sink into the atmosphere of repression.
